URBAN CENTRES AND LOCALITIES

In broad terms, an urban centre is a population cluster of 1,000 or more people while a locality is a population cluster of between 200 and 999 people. For statistical purposes, people living in urban centres are classified as urban while those in localities are classified as rural. Each urban centre or locality has a clearly defined boundary and comprises one or more whole census collection districts.

Redland City Council Local Government Area (LGA) contains one or more urban centres and/or localities. The urban centre or locality in the Redland City Council LGA with the largest population at 30 June 2008 was the urban centre of Russell-Macleay Islands, with a population of 5,405 persons (see following table). Of the urban centres and localities within Redland City Council LGA, the urban centre of Mount Cotton had the highest population density, with 519.8 persons per square kilometre.

Note: Small Area Labour Force data has been generated from a Structure Preserving Estimation (SPREE) methodology using original, unadjusted Australian Bureau of Statistics labour force estimates, Australian Bureau of Statistics Census 2006 data and Centrelink Newstart and Youth Allowance (Other). As such these estimates can exhibit considerable variability and care should be taken when interpreting these values. In addition, these estimates are based on original data and have not been adjusted to account for seasonal or other variations and can thus exhibit irregular movements. Quarter-to-quarter comparisons may not be indicative of actual movements in the labour market. Year-on-year comparisons may therefore be more appropriate.

SOCIO-ECONOMIC INDEX OF DISADVANTAGE

Socio-Economic Indexes for Areas (SEIFA) is a summary measure of the social and economic conditions of geographic areas across Australia. SEIFA comprises a number of indexes, which are generated at the time of the ABS Census of Population and Housing. In 2006, a Socio-Economic Index of Disadvantage was produced, ranking geographical regions to reflect disadvantage of social and economic conditions. The index focuses on low-income earners, relatively lower education attainment, high unemployment and dwellings without motor vehicles. Low index values represent areas of most disadvantage and high values represent areas of least disadvantage.

The following table shows the percentage of the population in each quintile (one-fifth or 20 per cent of the population) according to the Socio-Economic Index of Disadvantage. Quintile 1 represents the most disadvantaged group of persons, while quintile 5 represents the least disadvantaged group of persons.

By definition, Queensland has 20 per cent of the population in each quintile. In comparison, 9.0 per cent of the population of Redland City Council Local Government Area (LGA) were in the most disadvantaged quintile. Compared with the 20 per cent average across Queensland, 25.9 per cent of the population of Redland City Council LGA were in the least disadvantaged quintile.

(a) It is not currently possible to account for those businesses which operate out of multiple locations, other than at their main location. This is particularly relevant for larger businesses, which commonly establish outlets in numerous states and regions across Australia. The reason for this is that data pertaining to individual business locations are not currently available from the Australian Bureau of Statistics Business Register. Users should therefore be aware of this limitation when using counts of businesses included in this table.

(b) Businesses are defined as small (employing less than 20 people, including non-employing businesses), medium (employing 20 or more people but less than 100 people) and large (employing 100 or more persons).
